The History of Purple

Until a few hundred years ago, only the richest people wore purple clothes. For example, kings and queens wore purple as a sign of their high rank. Because of this, many people thought of it as a color that only powerful people could wear. The reason that purple clothes were so special was that, until the 19th century, purple was a very (36) color to make.

Thousands of years ago, a way to make purple cloth was discovered in a country in the Middle East known as Phoenicia, but it took a lot of time and effort. The Phoenicians made the color from a shellfish called "murex," and it took 250,000 of these shellfish just to make about 30 grams of purple color. (37), it was very expensive. The Phoenicians sold it to the Greeks and the Romans, but few people could use it because of the price. Later, in around A.D. 400, a Roman law was made so that only the emperor could wear clothes made with the best purple cloth.

During the 15th century, people started looking for new ways to make purple color. For example, some people tried using various types of insects or fish. They were successful, and this made purple clothing a little cheaper. However, it was still too expensive for most people. Then, in 1856, a scientist named William H. Perkin discovered a chemical called "mauveine." This made it possible for ordinary people to (38) purple clothes. The color soon became very fashionable, and today purple clothing can be found in almost any store.

From: Rose Carpenter <r-carpenter@axlesystems.com>
To: Adam Carpenter <adam777@newstepmail.com>
Date: November 20, 2012
Subject: Job search

Dear Adam,

How are you? I hear you are studying for your final exams. I hope you're not feeling too stressed. I remember studying until late every night in my last year of college. I studied business, though, so I'm not sure what you have to do for your major in Spanish. Do you have to take listening and writing tests?

Anyway, your mother asked me to write to you because she said you're having trouble finding a job. As your aunt, I'm happy to help. I used to work at a big company, and my job was to hire people. Because of that, I know what kind of person companies want. I will tell you more about that when I come to your house next month for Christmas dinner.

For now, just keep looking and don't be afraid to ask your friends to help you. Many people get jobs through people they know. My first job was at my friend's father's company. He hired me because he already knew and trusted me. Also, don't be too disappointed if you don't get a job after an interview. Just keep trying. If you have any questions, e-mail me anytime.

Your aunt,

Rose

Driving for the Earth

Most people know that taking a bus is safer and less expensive than driving a car. Also, riding buses is better for the environment. However, buses are not a perfect answer to environmental problems. One reason for this is because they use more fuel than they need to. Because of this, some people say that bus drivers should be trained to practice “eco-driving.”

Eco-driving means helping the environment by driving in a way that uses less fuel. A large amount of fuel is wasted when bus drivers do certain things, such as speeding up quickly or leaving the engine on when the bus is not moving. Some cities have started to train their bus drivers to stop doing these things to save both fuel and money. In order to teach bus drivers eco-driving, SmartDrive, a company in the United States, has recently developed a special system.

The system uses small lights to tell the driver how he or she is driving. It is put on the bus in a place that the driver can easily see. A green light comes on when the driver is driving well. A red light, on the other hand, tells the driver that he or she is wasting fuel. The idea is to teach the drivers while they are driving. In a test study, SmartDrive found that they could improve drivers’ fuel savings by as much as 18.7 percent.

Stagecoach Bus, a company in the United Kingdom, uses a system similar to SmartDrive’s. According to Stagecoach Bus, another benefit of eco-driving is that it is safer. The company says that they are using the system both to lower fuel costs and to reduce traffic accidents. To do this, Stagecoach Bus is offering its drivers extra money if they can improve their driving style. These new systems are helping to make taking the bus an even better option for the future.

- (42) What is one problem with buses?
- 1 It is hard to train the drivers.
 - 2 It is hard to make them safer than cars.
 - 3 They use more fuel than is needed.
 - 4 They use an expensive kind of fuel.
- (43) “Eco-driving” means
- 1 keeping buses moving as much as possible.
 - 2 changing the engines in buses to ones that need less fuel.
 - 3 making drivers pay money when they harm the environment.
 - 4 driving in ways that are better for the environment.
- (44) How does the SmartDrive system work?
- 1 It uses lights to tell drivers how well they are driving.
 - 2 It has a red light to tell drivers when to turn on the engine.
 - 3 It tests people on how much they know about global warming.
 - 4 It stores fuel in another part of the bus so that it is not wasted.
- (45) What is one thing that Stagecoach Bus is trying to do?
- 1 Get a prize for their eco-driving system.
 - 2 Create a new type of bus that uses no fuel.
 - 3 Make money by teaching drivers at other bus companies.
 - 4 Reduce the number of accidents caused by poor driving.
