

Eiken Grade 2 2014-3B

Keeping Citizens Safe

When natural disasters like floods or earthquakes happen, people need real-time information to stay safe. Now, using their computers or smartphones, people can quickly get information about dangerous situations. Some local governments send this by e-mail, and by doing so they to keep their citizens safe. It is likely that such services will become even more common in the future.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Yuji and his parents were talking about saying safe while camping.

- No. 1 According to the passage, how do some local governments try to keep their citizens safe?
- No. 2 Now please look at the picture and describe the situation. You have 20 seconds to prepare. Your story should begin with the sentence on the card.

Now Mr./Ms. _____, please turn the card over and put it down.

- No. 3 Some people say that people these days put too much personal information online. What do you think about that?
- No. 4 Today, some people like to make furniture and other things by hand. Do you think the number of these people will increase in the future?
Yes. → Why?
No. → Why Not?

- No. 1 By sending information about dangerous situations by e-mail.
- No. 2 One day, Yuji and his parents were talking about staying safe while camping. He said to them, "Please teach me some outdoor skills." That weekend at a campsite. Yuji and his father were setting up a tent. Yuji's mother was picking flowers. An hour later, Yuji was surprised to see a snake in the grass. Yuji's father told him not to touch the snake.
- No. 3 I agree. Many people allow their pictures to be seen on the Internet. It's dangerous to put such information online.
- I disagree. Most people are careful about what they put online. Also, they only share private information with close friends.
- No. 4 Yes. People can save money by making things by hand. Also, some people find it enjoyable to make things.
- No. It's easier for people to buy things in stores. Also, many people don't have time to make things by hand.