A Family Vacation

Martha and Bill Wilson go on vacation with their two sons every summer. They want their sons to learn about the places that they visit, so Martha and Bill spend a lot of time looking up information about the places before they go. Last year, they were so tired from planning their vacation that they could not enjoy it. This year, they decided to (26). They looked online and found a tour to Italy.

In August, the family flew to Rome and met their tour guide for a one-week tour. He took them to many important sites in Italy and taught them about Italian history. Although the Wilsons learned a lot, (27). They enjoyed visiting many interesting places but did not have enough time to spend at each one. Next year, they will try going on a tour again but will choose one with fewer activities.

- (26) 1 stay at home
 2 go to the same town
 3 try something new
 4 ask their sons to study
- (27) 1 they were very busy
 2 the sons felt bored
 3 the weather was bad
 4 their bus was crowded

[B]

Pink and Blue

When we walk through a toy store, we often notice that there are two sections for toys—a pink section and a blue section. The pink section is filled with dolls, stuffed animals, and cooking sets. The blue section has cars, building blocks, and science sets. From a very early age, girls and boys are told to (28). Girls should choose toys from the pink section, and boys should pick ones from the blue section.

Recently, some people have begun to worry about this. They say that toys help children learn important things. For example, when children play with dolls, they learn to take care of people and to be kind. On the other hand, children who play with science sets and building blocks become more interested in science. Many parents want (29) all these things. They want their daughters to be interested in science and their sons to be kind. Therefore, more and more parents want all their children to play with both “girls’ toys” and “boys’ toys.”

Some toy companies are listening to these parents’ concerns. In the United States, one large chain store has stopped separating toys into a girls’ section and a boys’ section. In Europe, one toy company’s catalogs show boys playing with baby dolls and girls playing with cars. Many parents are happy (30). This is because they believe that it is making the world a better place for boys and girls.

- (28) 1 talk to each other nicely
2 finish homework quickly
3 play with different toys
4 visit toy stores together
- (29) 1 their daughters to stop doing
2 their sons to stop doing
3 both boys and girls to learn
4 teachers and schools to prepare

Subject: Pie-baking contest

Hi Paul,

How was your science test last week? I remember you said you were having trouble with that subject and were studying a lot for it. Well, last week was good for me. Our class had a math test. It was easy, and I got an A on it. Also, since we had our school festival, our teacher didn't give us much homework.

By the way, my brother is a really good baker, and he owns a bakery in Timbertown. Next weekend, he is going to take part in a pie-baking contest at Riverfront Park. There will be about 30 bakers in the contest. The winner will go to the national contest in Washington, D.C. During the contest, judges will try a bit of pie from each baker and choose a winner at the end of the day. Anyone can go to the contest to try some pie, too. It costs $15 to enter and each person gets five food tickets. They then use those tickets to try pie from five different bakers. I'm planning to go, so call me soon and tell me if you want to come.

Your friend,

Ellen

- (31) Last week, Ellen
- 1 did well on a test at school.
 - 2 visited her friend's school festival.
 - 3 studied hard for her science class.
 - 4 got a lot of homework from her teacher.
- (32) What will Ellen's brother do next weekend?
- 1 He will open a new bakery.
 - 2 He will take part in a contest.
 - 3 He is going to go to Washington, D.C.
 - 4 He is going to bake a pie for his family.
- (33) What does Ellen ask Paul to do?
- 1 Lend her $15 to buy the things she needs to bake a pie.
 - 2 Help the judges to choose the winner of the contest.
 - 3 Tell her if he is interested in going to a pie-baking contest.
 - 4 Call one of the bakers to get some food tickets.

The Bajau

In the Pacific Ocean around the Philippines, Malaysia, and Indonesia, there is a group of people known as the Bajau. In the past, these people did not live on land. Instead, they spent their whole lives on small boats in the ocean. These days, many Bajau live in homes built on wooden poles in the sea, but they still spend a lot of their time on boats. They only sometimes go on land to buy things that they need.

The ocean is very important to the Bajau. They dive deep into the water to hunt for fish or collect seaweed to eat. Sometimes they catch extra fish, which they trade on land for rice, water, and other household goods. They also collect oysters so that they can get pearls, which they then sell for high prices.

Recent research on the Bajau language shows that the Bajau may have come from the island of Borneo in the 11th century. However, nobody is sure why the Bajau originally began to live on the ocean instead of on land. According to an old story, a princess from Borneo got lost in the ocean during a storm. Her father, the king, told some people living in his land that they must search for her in the ocean. He also said that they must not return until they found her. Because the princess was never found, those people stayed on the ocean forever.

Although the Bajau have a long history of living at sea, their way of life has started to change. One of the main reasons for this is damage to the environment. The ocean has become dirtier, and the number of fish is decreasing. As a result, the Bajau cannot get enough food, so they have to look for other ways to get it. By protecting the environment, we can also protect the Bajau's unique culture.

(34) What is true about the Bajau?

- 1 They are afraid of traveling in small boats.
- 2 They build houseboats and sell them to visitors.
- 3 They use wooden poles to catch fish in the sea.
- 4 They spend most of their time on the ocean.

(35) Why is the ocean important to the Bajau?

- 1 They are able to get most of the things that they need from it.
- 2 They use water from it to grow rice and other food.
- 3 They have special boats where they keep household goods.
- 4 They swim and dive in the ocean on their days off.

(36) What has recent research found about the Bajau?

- 1 Their princess brought them to the ocean during a storm many years ago.
- 2 Their first king thought that life would be better if they lived on the sea.
- 3 They learned how to speak a new language when they moved to Borneo.
- 4 They might have come from the island of Borneo around 1,000 years ago.

(37) The Bajau need to look for new ways to find food because

- 1 many young people do not like to eat fish any more.
- 2 damage to the ocean is causing the number of fish to go down.
- 3 their culture is changing quickly which makes it difficult to find food.
- 4 they do not want to hurt the environment of the ocean by catching fish.
