Stage 5 Lesson 299

Purpose            in order to...            so that take exercise

The most common way to communicate purpose in English is by using the infinitive with "to". For example, the sentence "I went to the hospital to see a doctor" tells us the purpose of going to the hospital. With formal English, it is more common to use "in order to". For example, we would say "I visited the hospital in order to see a doctor".

Answer the following questions with "in order to":

Why do people eat?

People eat in order to live

For what purpose do people work?

People work in order to earn money

Stage 5 Lesson

What must we do in order to keep in good health?

In order to ..., we must sleep well, eat healthy food, take plenty of exercise, not smoke etc.

What do you think is the purpose of living?

I think the ...

is to be happy and to make others happy etc..

We can also use "so that" to communicate purpose. For example, "She shut the door so that the cat could not go into the garden".

Give me an example of "so that", please.

He put the food in the fridge so that it would stay fresh.

Stage 5 Lesson 300

point at

point out

indicate

We use "point at" for the action of pointing the finger at an object. For example, "I'm pointing at that picture". However, "to point out" means to indicate something among different things. For example, "He pointed out the mistakes in my dictation".

What's the difference between "to point at" and "to point out"?

The difference between "to point at" and "to point out" is that we use "to point at" for the action of pointing the finger at an object, whereas "to point out" means to indicate something among different things

Stage 5 Lesson

What am I doing?

You're pointing at the light.

Point at the picture on the wall, please.

What are you doing?

I'm pointing at....

Point out the mistake in this sentence, please:

"I've gone to the cinema this week".

We can't say "I've gone ..."; we must say

"I've been to the cinema this week"

What are you doing?

He's pointing out the mistake in that sentence.
