Stage 6 Lesson 376

Tail questions

tail

confirm

We usually use a tail question when we believe something is true, and we want somebody to confirm that we are right.

Ex. "You're feeling tired, aren't you?"

When do we use a tail question?

We use a tail question when we believe something is true, and we want somebody to confirm that we are right

Give me an example, please.

He is going to go out tonight, isn't he?

Stage 6 Lesson

REMEMBER:

If the main part of the sentence is positive, the tail question is negative.
If the main part of the sentence is negative, the tail question is positive.

For example: "You're Mr Brown, aren't you?"
"You aren't Mr Brown, are you?"

(Teacher's instruction):

Right, now I will say something and I want you to repeat it and add a tail question. Remember that, if the main part of the sentence is positive, the tail question is negative, and vice versa.

He's a young man.

He's a young man, isn't he?
