I have a really bad flu.

Tina: Hello, Winnie. What time will you be coming here?

Winnie: As much as I'd like to, but I'm really feeling sick and weather.

Tina: What seems to be the problem? How do you feel?

Winnie: I have a really bad flu and a splitting headache.

Tina: I think you should go and see a doctor.

Winnie: Yeah. I'm just waiting for my mom to arrive.

Tina: Are you taking any medicine?

Winnie: Yeah.

Tina: Okay. Let me know if there's anything you need.

Winnie: Thanks, Tina.

I'd like to set an appointment with...

Sandy: Hi, this is Sandy Ong.

I'd like to set an appointment with Dr.Mendez.

Receptionist: He can see you on Wednesday, June 7that 2 p.m.

Is that alright?

Sandy: I'm really feeling sick.

Is it possible to see the doctor any sooner?

I can't be sick for another week!

Receptionist: Oh I see. Are you taking any medicine now?

Sandy: Yes. But I still feel sick.

Receptionist: Okay. You may come here now in our clinic while Dr.Wong's patient is not yet around.

Sandy: Thank you very much. I'll be there in a jiffy.

Receptionist: Take care.

Role play with your teacher. You are a patient complaining about abdominal pain. Your teacher is a physician. Make sure you describe the symptoms in detail: what kind of pain, the degree of pain, exact location in your abdomen, what medicine you have taken for it, and history of similar pain.
