GP2 Reading & Speaking Practice #29

Story

One evening, Satoshi didn't feel well, so his parents took him to the hospital. After the doctor examined him, they decided that Satoshi needed to stay in the hospital overnight for some tests. Satoshi was a bit scared because he had never stayed in a hospital before. In his hospital room, Satoshi had a cozy bed, and the nurses and doctors were very kind. They explained everything to him and made sure he was comfortable. His parents stayed with him, reading stories and playing games to pass time. Satoshi realized that the hospital wasn't as scary as he thought. It was a place where people took care of him and helped him feel better. When morning came, Satoshi was feeling much improved, and he was glad that he could go back home.
