E-MAIL

Dear Chie,

I hope you're well.

I saw an interesting TV program about technology last night. It said use of the Internet in school classrooms is becoming common in the U.S. and Japan. Do you think this is beneficial for students?

The program also said many people these days illegally download movies from the Internet. In your opinion, should there be strict punishments for people who do this?

I recently got a portable e-book reader for my birthday, so now I only buy electronic books. Do you think that electronic books are a good idea?

Write back soon.
