E-MAIL

Dear Rena,

How are you?

My parents recently bought a bigger house, so my brother and I no longer have to share a room. Do you think it's a good idea for kids to have their own rooms?

I'm 16 years old and my parents have a rule that I always have to come home before 10 p.m. In your opinion, are my parents being too strict?

By the way, when I visited Japan last year I noticed that smoking is allowed in many public places like cafes and restaurants. Do you think smoking should be banned in such places?

Write back soon.

Jeremy

Eメールの訳

Dear Rena,
(やあ、レナ)

How are you?
(元気かな?)

My parents recently bought a bigger house, so my brother and I no longer have to share a room. Do you think it's a good idea for kids to have their own rooms?

(うちの親が最近、前よりも大きい家を買って、弟と僕はもう同じ部屋を使わなくてもよくなったんだけど、子供が自分専用の部屋を持つのはよいことだと思う?)

I'm 16 years old and my parents have a rule that I always have to come home before 10 p.m. In your opinion, are my parents being too strict?

(僕は今16歳なんですけど、門限が10時なんです。うちの親って厳しすぎると思わない?)

By the way, when I visited Japan last year I noticed that smoking is allowed in many public places like cafes and restaurants. Do you think smoking should be banned in such places?

(ところで、去年日本に行ったとき、カフェとかレストランとかたくさんの公共の場所でタバコを吸うのが許されてたのに気付いたんだよね。そういう場所は禁煙にすべきだと思う?)
