We have two sentences:

- 1) "Mr Brown has been to Scotland" and
- 2) "Mr Brown has gone to Scotland".

The first sentence, "Mr Brown has been to Scotland", means that he has visited Scotland in his life but is not there now. The second sentence, "Mr Brown has gone to Scotland", means he is in Scotland; he isn't here now.

What's the difference between these two sentences?

"Mr Brown has been to Scotland"

and

"Mr Brown hasgoneto Scotland"

The difference between those two sentences is that the first sentence means that Mr Brown has visited Scotland in his life but he is not there now, whereas the second sentence means he is in Scotland; he is not here now

We can say "Mr Brown has gone to Scotland", because he is not here now, butwe can't say "I have gone to Scotland", because that means I am not here now, which is impossible.

Why can we say "Mr Brown has gone to Scotland", but not "I have gone to Scotland"? We can say "Mr Brown has gone to Scotland", but not "I have gone to Scotland", because "I have gone to Scotland" means I am not here now, which is impossible
