Part 3: Short Conversations Tapescripts

1. W: Have you tried the Sunday brunch at Joe's Pizza Parlor?

M: No, I haven't. Is it an all-you-can-eat buffet?

W: Yes, they have all types of salads and Italian specialties.

1. Where does the woman recommend for a brunch?

- A. Joe's is a specialist in buffets.
- B. Joe's is a Pizza Restaurant.
- C. Joe's is for eating all the salads
- D. Joe's is good on Sundays.

2. M: Do you know what the weather will be like today?

W: If it's as windy and rainy as yesterday, I won't dare to leave my house windows open.

M: Yesterday a windstorm just broke two of my windows.

2. What happened to the windows the day before?

- A. They were opened.
- B. They were windy and rainy.
- C. The bad weather broke them.
- D. The weatherman broke them.

3. M 1: Help yourself. We have French fries, hamburgers, beef rolls, and drinks on the counter.

M 2: Gee, Dad. Where's ketchup?

M1: Right here. Now let's eat. I'm really hungry..

3. What dose the boy ask for?

- A. French fries
- B. Drinks
- C. Hamburger
- D. Ketchup

4. W: Can you direct me the way to Sogo department store? Is it nearby?

M: Well, you can get off at the second bus stop. It is on you right. You won't miss it.

W: Thank you

4. What are they discussing?

- A. The direction to get to the department store.
- B. She misses her dad.
- C. How to get to a bus stop.
- D. The nearest bus stop.

5-6. W1: Look at the price of this bread. Three-ninety-nine a loaf? Can you believe it? Last summer it was only two-seventy-five!

W2: I know. Everything's going up so fast. This coffee has jumped from four dollars to five twenty five. And eggs went from one eighty nine to three thirty two.

W1: It's not just food either. My electricity bill's soaring, and I read this morning that garbage collection is going up 15 percent next year. I don't know how I'm going to afford it.

W2: Me either. My salary can't keep up with inflation. Our family's had to cut back on lots of things. We just got rid of our cable television, and we're going down to one car soon.

5. What are the speakers doing?

- A. Riding a bus
- B. Shopping for groceries
- C. Waiting to buy coffee
- D. Watching TV

6. What is the main purpose of the discussion?

- A. To inform
- B. To comfort
- C. To debate
- D. To complain

7. M: Hello, Sheila Sarkesian? This is Mark Fredricks with Watson and Williams. You interviewed with us last week.

W: Oh yes, Mr. Fredricks. How are you?

M: I'm doing well. I'm phoning to tell you that you're a finalist for the position, and we'd like you to come in for a second interview on Wednesday or Thursday.

W: Wednesday works great. What time should I be there?

7. Why is the man calling the woman?

- A. To schedule a meeting
- B. To offer her a job
- C. To thank her for applying
- D. To request more information

8-9. W: Hey James. How's your research going for the board of directors' report? Is there anything I can help you with?

M: Thank for offering, Liv. I've been summarizing customer satisfaction surveys for each quarter of last year. It's pretty interesting. Actually, if it's not too much trouble, would you proofreading my power-point slides? I'll have them finished in about an hour.

W: Sure, no problem. E-mail them to me and I'll look them over. Did you discover anything interesting in reading the surveys?

M: Oh yes. They're quite interesting. Probably the most fascinating thing were the opinions about the price of our product. In the first quarter, about 70 percent of the customers said it was priced fairly, but by the last quarter, when the economy had worsened, more than 80 percent said it was priced too high.

8. What does the man say about product price?

- A. It increased by 10 percent.
- B. Customers' opinions of it changed.
- C. Most customers paid too much.
- D. It is priced unfairly.

- A. In a library
- B. In a university
- C. In a meeting
- D. In an office

10. W: Hello, Howard. How's your new building coming along?

M: Pretty well. I'm waiting for the painters to finish so I can install carpets. They still have three more apartments to paint. I'm hoping they'll finish soon, because I have the units rented, but I can't let tenants move in until the carpets are down.

W: Have you rented all eight of the apartments?

M: No, not yet. I have six of them rented, and I'm advertising for the last two in the Post-News.

10. What are the speakers mainly discussing?

- A. The man's business
- B. Carpet cleaning
- C. The price of rent
- D. An advertisement

11. M: Hey Ellie. We're going to Lucky Dragon for lunch. Want to come?

W: I can't. I'm covering the phones for Scott. He had an 11:30 dental appointment.

M: Oh that's too bad. Want us to bring you something back?

W: Yes, thank you. I'll have the Kung Pao Chicken with Chow Mien. Could you hand me my purse, please?

11. What will the woman probably do next?

- A. Answer the telephone
- B. Give the man money
- C. Order lunch
- D. Use the bathroom

12-13. W: Hello? I'm calling about the two-bedroom rental you have advertised on the Home Base website. Is that still available?

M: Yes it is. If you'd like to see it , we can make an appointment for this afternoon.

W: OK, but before I see it, I'd like a little more information. The ad said it was $1,500 a month, plus the first and last month rent in advance, plus a cleaning deposit. How much is the cleaning deposit? Also, how many bathrooms does it have?

M: It has two bathrooms, and the cleaning deposit is $500, half of which is non-refundable.

12. What does the man say about the cleaning deposit?

- A. It is $5,000.
- B. It is fully refundable.
- C. He will waive it.
- D. He will keep half of it.

13. What does the woman want to do?

- A. Buy a house
- B. Rent a home
- C. Pay a deposit
- D. Place an ad

14. W: Hey Bill, do you have any change? I need some quarters for the vending machine.

M: Another healthy lunch today, eh Paula? Let me see, I can change a dollar. Here you are.

W: Thanks. I'm working on the Pratt Project. It's due this week, and I don't have time to get out for lunch. Oh no, I need two more quarters.

M: Why don't you ask Theresa? She'll be back soon.

14. What problem does the woman have?

- A. She needs coins.
- B. The vending machine is broken.
- C. Her project is overdue.
- D. She did not eat breakfast.

15. M: Is there anything interesting in the paper today?

W: Well, Perry Fondue died yesterday.

M: Really? That's too bad. I loved him in Too Noisy on the Eastern Front. He was great in those kind of macho, tough-guy roles.

W: Yeah, but he wasn't one dimensional. He could also play sensitive parts. Didn't he win an Oscar for that love story, The Russian Patient?

15. Who are the speakers talking about?

- A. A singer
- B. A playwright
- C. An actor
- D. An artist
