I'm Edith. I'm going to my grandfather's.
He lives in a house.

There is a big basement in my grandfather's house. My grandfather says, "Hi, Edith. Come here. I'm in the basement."

“Hi, Grandpa. What do you have?” I ask.
“I have some old photographs,” he says.
“Come here and look.”

My grandfather says, "Look, Edith. These are my ice skates. They were in the entryway."

“Where are the ice skates now, Grandpa?” I ask.
He says, “They’re in that box on the shelf.”

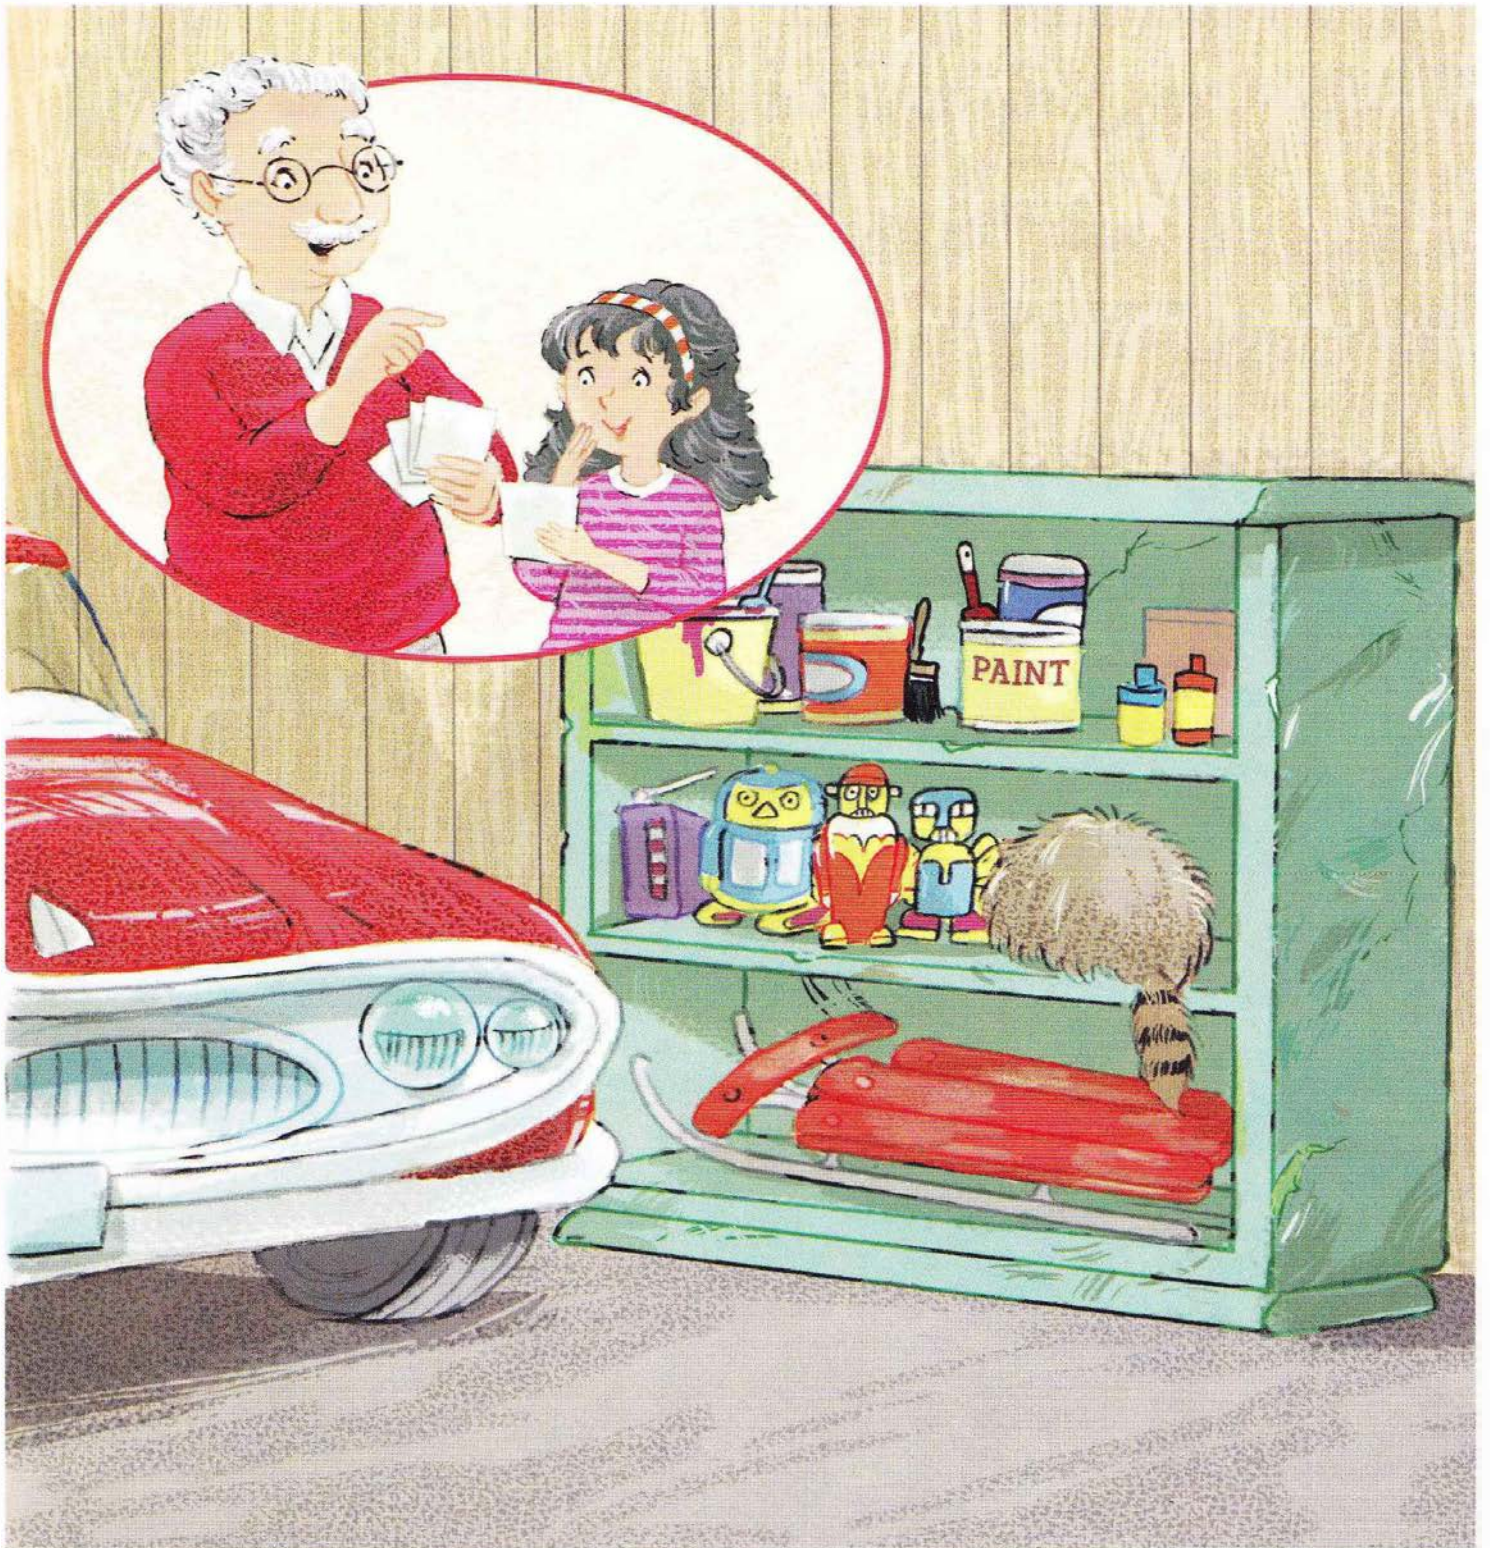

My grandfather says, "Look at this picture, Edith. My books were on a bookshelf. The bookshelf was in the living room."

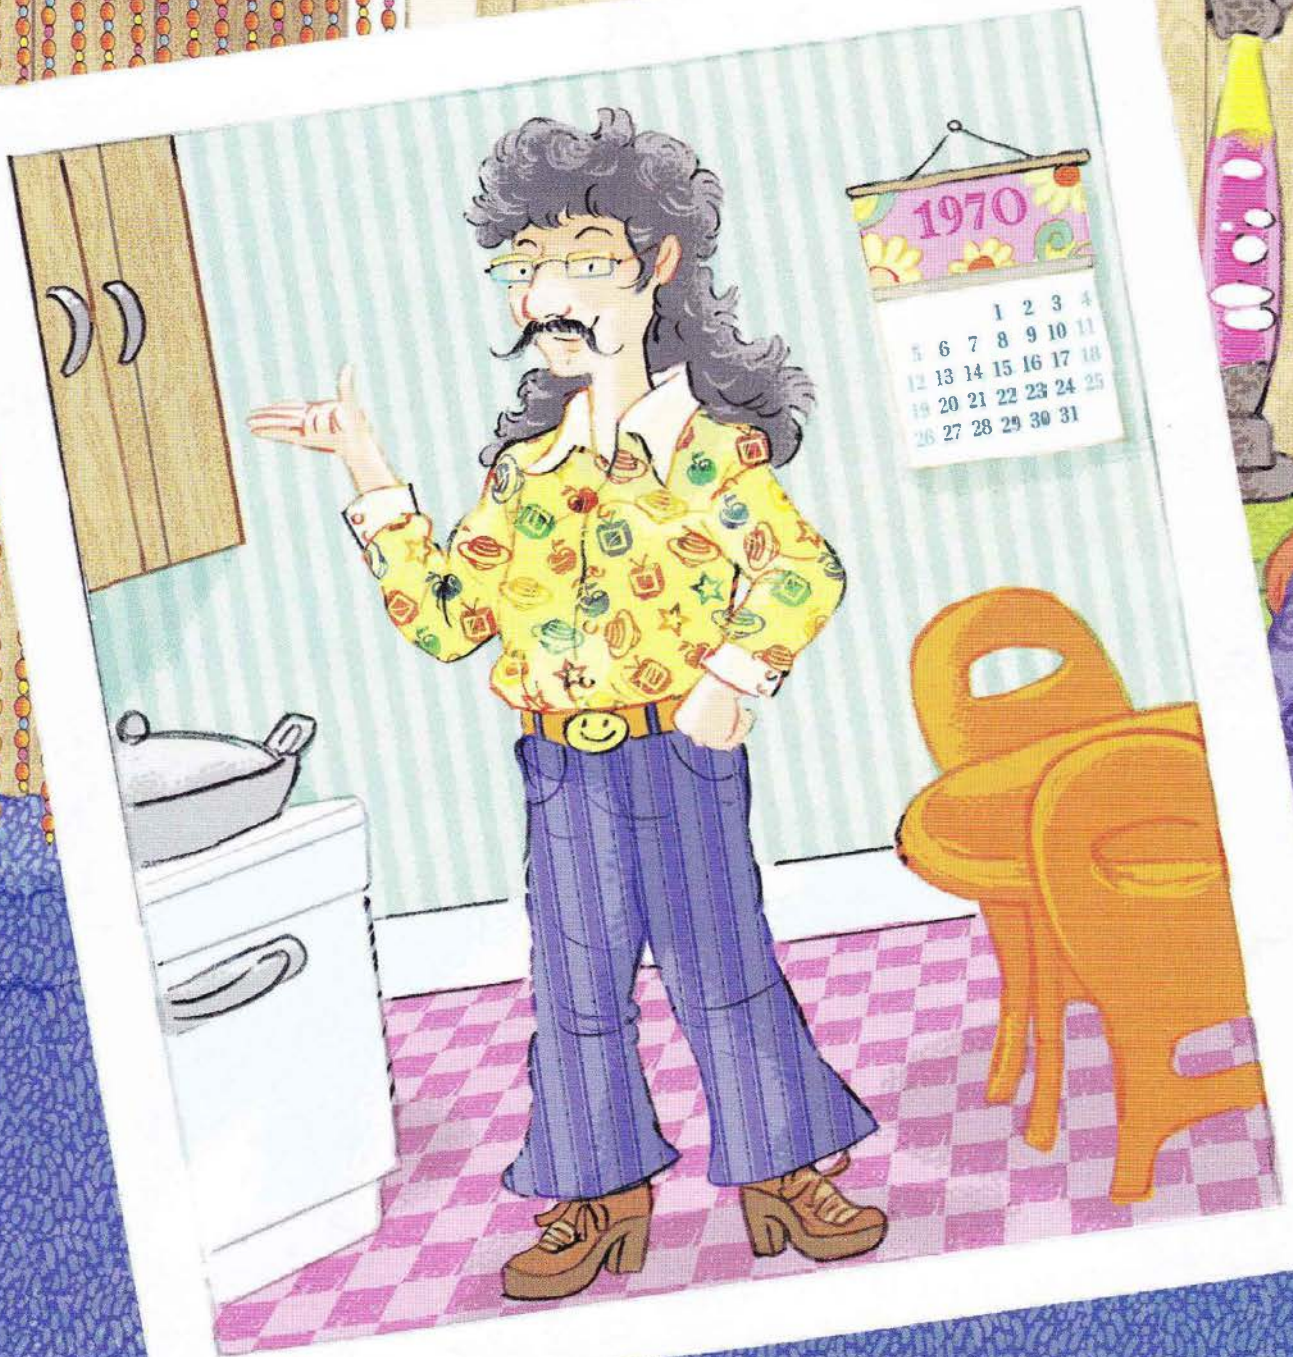

“Where are the books now, Grandpa?” I ask.
He says, “They’re in the bedroom. I read books at night.”

“Where is the bookshelf now?” I ask.

“It’s in the garage, Edith,” he says. “My old sled is on the first shelf. My old toys are on the second shelf.”

“Look, Grandpa. You were in the kitchen. Where are you now?” I ask. He says, “I’m in the basement!”
